

Mission statement

Pinngle is building a better-connected world by making the highest standards of quality, reliability, and privacy accessible to everyone.

Story

The idea for Pinngle was born from the observations of a young professional in the international telecom industry. After observing how peoples' communications were being played around with - blocked, sold, or monitored - he set out to create a messaging app that offered people a trustworthy and reliable way to communicate. Together with a team of likeminded people, he created Pinngle, a messenger that would be private and functional almost everywhere.

We ask everyone to join Pinngle, because it's time we make communication about the people again. Communication is not a product, it is essential to all life. It can unite us to transform our communities and our world. Nothing should be able to get between that. No third parties, no political affairs, and no hidden monetization plans.

Company culture

We're a team of multinationals who are passionate about the power of communication, and are on a mission to make telecom faster, safer, and smarter. Other than coffee and afternoon sweets, we're fueled by big dreams and five principles:

- 1.) People come first. People are our #1 priority. We aim to maximize human joy by delivering the highest standards for call quality, privacy, and (of course) fun.
- 2.) A borderless world is a better world. The Pinngle community has no borders. We work to serve everyone, with any device, in any corner of the world.
- 3.) Communication is essential. Communication is a basic human need. We strive to make it simple and worry-free for everybody.
- 4.) Be fearless and authentic. We're enablers of fearless and authentic expression. Why? Because life is too short for reservations.
- 5.) Do more with less. We do the most we can with the least resources. It's sustainable. It's practical. It's the way of the samurai.
